

A Letter and Proposal Regarding 8275 W Amarillo Blvd

To: Deeter Prater, Llano Realty (and the seller of 8275 W Amarillo Blvd) From: Pastor Manny De Los Santos and Angel Mendoza On behalf of: Power Church, Amarillo Date: May 4, 2026

---

Dear Mr. Prater,

We hope this finds you well. We're writing to put a serious offer on the table for 8275 W Amarillo Blvd, the former United Artists theater you have listed.

We're Power Church, a growing congregation currently meeting at 1344 SE 10th Avenue. Pastor Manny has shepherded our community for several years now, and the people who walk through our doors on Sunday mornings have outgrown the building we're in. We've been praying about the right next home for some time. When we walked into your listing and saw the auditorium, the lobby, the kitchen footprint, the classrooms behind the screens, we both said the same thing: this could be it.

Before we get into terms, we want to say something about the building itself.

A movie theater in its prime is one of the most communal spaces a town can have. People come together. They laugh together. They cry together. They share an experience that ties them to the place and to each other. That's not so far from what a church does. We see your seller's building not as a vacant box that lost its tenant, but as a community gathering place that's waiting for its next chapter. The story of that building isn't over. It just needs the right next steward.

We believe Power Church can be that steward.

What we want to do with the building

---

If we acquire 8275 W Amarillo Blvd, here's what the next two years look like:

- Sanctuary in the main auditorium, seating roughly 1,200 to 1,400, used Sunday mornings, Wednesday evenings, and special services
- Lobby cafe open weekday mornings serving the surrounding business district and the church family
- Wedding and event venue in evenings and weekends, available to families inside and outside the congregation
- Classrooms and conference rooms in the former screen rooms, used for kids' ministry on Sundays and rented to local nonprofits, businesses, and ministries during the week
- Youth and after-school programs for the families in the neighborhood
- Office and small-suite leasing for Christian counselors, ministry partners, and small businesses
- Media studio for podcasting, recording, and content production

The building goes from vacant to producing income seven days a week. The investment that goes back into the property over the first 18 months brings the asset back to a fully active, community-anchoring use. Whatever the building meant to its previous life, it gets to mean even more in its next one.

Where we are with the bank

We've been working with Senior Vice President Jerome Pratt at First State Bank Spearman. He's familiar with our sponsor, Angel Mendoza, and he's already in conversation with us about a $2 million construction loan for the renovation. The acquisition itself is the piece we want to discuss with you and your seller, because the structure that gets this deal across the finish line is the structure that works for everyone.

We've modeled this carefully. Two structures could close this transaction quickly and fairly:

Proposed Structure 1: Seller Financing on the Acquisition

---

Effective purchase price: $3,500,000 to $4,000,000 (a $1.5M to $2M concession from the $5.5M asking price, reflecting the 2.5-year vacancy and the special-purpose conversion work the buyer takes on)

Down payment: Negotiable, with a preference for $0 down and a small earnest money deposit

Seller financing: $2,000,000 carried by the seller, interest-only at 6.0% per year, with a balloon at 24 months

Bank construction loan: $2,000,000 from First State Bank Spearman, funded progressively as renovation milestones are met

Refinance and seller payoff: At completion of renovation (approximately month 13 to 15), Power Church refinances both the acquisition note and the construction loan into a single 25-year permanent commercial mortgage. Seller is paid in full.

What this gives the seller: - Movement on a 2.5-year vacancy and a clear path to full payoff - A predictable monthly interest payment of $10,000 starting at closing - A capital event (full payoff) within 24 months, on a defined timeline - A quality steward for the building's next chapter

Proposed Structure 2: Master Lease with Option to Buy

---

Lease structure: 12 to 18 month master lease at $3 per square foot per year (gross), with full rent abatement during the construction-renovation period (industry standard when tenant improvements substantially upgrade the asset)

Lease commencement of full payments: At certificate of occupancy

Bank construction loan: $2,000,000 from First State Bank Spearman, used during the lease period for the renovation

Option to purchase: Power Church holds an option to acquire the property at $3,800,000 at lease end, exercisable upon refinance to permanent financing

What this gives the seller: - Same outcome (full payoff at refinance), with a lease income stream in the months between certificate of occupancy and option exercise - A tenant fully invested in the asset (we are spending $2 million of borrowed money to improve your building) - A guaranteed buyer at a known price, on a known timeline - The option to retain the building if the buyer walks (with $2 million of fresh improvements in place, the property's lease value to the next tenant is materially higher)

Why we believe this works for everyone

For the seller: A 2.5-year vacancy gets replaced by a known counterparty with bank backing and a defined exit. Either structure ends with a full cash payoff on a defined timeline. The carryback option is interest-only during the period the seller is the largest stakeholder; the rents under the lease structure provide cash flow if the seller wants to retain the asset longer.

For us: A move-in-ready facility at a price that lets the church serve more people without being house-poor on debt service. A renovation loan from a bank we already know and trust. A timeline we can plan to.

For the community: The building serves Amarillo seven days a week instead of sitting dark. Wedding receptions, business conferences, Sunday services, weekday coffee, kids' programs, counseling offices, all under one roof, all anchored by a stable nonprofit congregation that has every reason to care for the asset for the long haul.

What we need next

---

We'd like to sit down with you and the seller for a 30-minute conversation. Whichever structure makes more sense to your seller is the structure we'll move forward on. We're not married to either. We just need to know which path the seller is open to so we can lock terms with First State Bank Spearman and bring you a clean offer with no surprises.

If it helps, we can come to your office, meet at the property, or invite you to coffee at our current campus on SE 10th. Whatever's easiest for you.

We're available this week and next, and we believe time matters here. The longer the building sits vacant, the more it costs your seller. The longer we wait, the longer our families worship in a building that's outgrown them.

Closing

This is a significant decision for everyone involved. We don't take it lightly. We want this to be a transaction the seller looks back on and feels good about, not just because the numbers worked, but because the building went on to do something good in a town we all share.

Whatever path you and your seller prefer, we'd like to talk. Please call or email at your convenience.
